OPP warn drivers of hazards involved in winter months

Winter weather has brought a number of changes to the driving routine. The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police has requested that the following sections of the Highway Traffic Act be brought to the attention of area drivers so they can become aware of their responsibilities.

Windows to be cleared (Section 48)

No person shall drive a motor vehicle upon a highway, a-unless the windshield and the windows on either side of the compartment containing the steering wheel are in a condition as to afford the driver a clear view to the front and side of the motor vehicle; and

b-unless the rear window is in such a condition as to afford the driver a clear view to the rear of the motor vehicle.

Part 'b' does not apply to a motor vehicle that is equipped with a mirror or mirrors securely attached to the motor vehicle and placed in such a position and maintained in such a condition as to afford the driver, otherwise than through the rear window, a clearly reflected view of the roadway to the rear or of any vehicle approaching from the rear.

Parked interfering (Section 116)

1a-No person shall park, stand or stop a vehicle on a roadway, when it is practicable to park, stand or stop the vehicle off the roadway; or b-when it is not practicable to park, stand or stop the vehicle off the roadway unless a clear view of the vehicle and the roadway for at least 125 metres beyond the vehicle may be obtained from a distance of at least 125 metres from the vehicle in each direction upon the highway.

(10) Notwithstanding the other provisions of this section, no person shall park or stand a vehicle on a highway in such a manner as to interfere with the movement of traffic or the clearing of snow from the highway.

(13) A constable or an officer appointed for the carrying out of the provisions of this Act, upon discovery of any vehicle parked or standing in contravention of subsection (10) or of a municipal by-law, may cause it to be moved or taken to and placed or stored in a suitable place and all costs and charges for removing, care and storage thereof, if any, are a lien upon the vehicle, which may be enforced in the manner provided by section 48 of the Mechanic's Lien Act.

Deposit snow on roadway (Section 124a)

No person shall deposit snow or ice on a roadway without permission in writing so to do, from the Ministry (MTC) or the road authority responsible for the maintenance of the road.

With everyone's co-operation in complying with the above mentioned sections from the Highway Traffic Act, there would be a substantial reduction in the number of motor vehicle collisions occurring in the County during the winter months.

Christmas in Christmas is the oldest of Nordic festivals. Even in heathen times, midwinter festivals were held around the shortest day of the year; gentleness, gifts and peace belonged to Yule even then. And to this day, some Christmas customs are altogether not free from the influence of both old heathen and early Christian traditions.

Christmas preparations begin with mailing of greeting cards and letters for relatives and friends abroad to which you attach the Christmas seal of the year. Each year a new design is issued - a mini work of art. The revenue from these seals goes toward convalescence facilities for ailing children. Then, when all the mail is sent, you can look forward to all the nice greetings returning to you.

On the first Sunday of advent (fourth Sunday before Christmas) many Danes hang up a wreath of pine twigs mounted with four candles and light one candle for a short while after dusk. The following Sundays, the additional candles will be lit, till on the last Sunday before Christmas, all four candles are burning.

Children begin their Christmas countdown on December first. They light their tall 24-day candle once every day. Many Danish youngsters also have a Christmas calendar. It may be a cardboard house with 24 windows or a homemade tapestry with 24 hooks to which are attached 24 little parcels, one for each day. This countdown takes place in the morning, and therefore it causes no problem to get the children out of bed in the dark December mornings.

Following Danish Christmas tradition, this young girl blows out another "day" from the 24-day candle. The candle is lighted every day from the first of December until Christmas Eve to mark off the time, anxious children must wait for the big day itself. Photo: Danish Tourist Board.

'Tis the season to be jolly! And we send jolly good thanks to all our friends.

Season's Greetings from Mike and Clara Vuksic & Staff of

MIKE'S MILK

Denmark

In early December, decoration of the home begins in earnest. Cut-out pixies and fairies find their way around the house peaking from behind picture frames and mirrors. And in the dark winter nights, the whole family gathers around the dining room table with scissors, glue and coloured paper to fold, and all the traditional figures for the Christmas tree like cones, baskets, angels, birds and hearts are produced.

A day or two before Christmas, it's time to get a tree. Many are available, either from one of the many stands or from the woods, where you can chop down the tree that suits your taste. The Christmas tree as a symbol of Christmas is relatively recent in Denmark. In Alsace, it was known as early as the 16th century. In Denmark and in Sweden, the Christmas tree was introduced in the early 19th century.

Christmas cooking is traditional in Denmark although you hear many a house-wife say, "This year I simply don't intend to exhaust myself! We'll buy what we need - the baker's ginger biscuits are really a treat ..." But somehow most of the family ends up in the kitchen anyway, mixing flour, kneading dough and shaping gingerbread men. And gradually the consensus is that nobody can quite make liver-paste the way Mum does - and Dad's special mixture of marinated herring is a 'must' at every Christmas time. And so things are back as they were last year.

The conclusion is, though, that you have enough food to last you through the Christmas holiday all the way into the New Year.

Christmas Eve is the biggest evening of the year, the most beautiful. Relatives travelling to relatives, last minute shopping, the tree is brought in and decorated out of sight to the children and a wonderful smell of something cooking wafts from the kitchen. The traditional Christmas Eve dinner in Denmark starts after church, around 6 p.m. with a rice pudding with one solitary almond. The finder wins a prize, often a marzipan porker. Then the menu moves on to roast pork, duck, goose or turkey accompanied by candied potatoes, red cabbage and jelly. If there are children at the table, the meal seldom lasts long - they cannot stand the suspense.

The tree is lit, everybody forms a ring round the tree, holding hands, singing Christmas carols and then the moment arrives when we open the parcels that were placed under the tree. Surprise is an important element. The excitement is over, and gradually the best evening of the year draws to a close.

Christmas Day is rather sociable - with a busy menu. Groaning lunch-tables in the company of family and friends, and all the delicious food is washed down with beer and snaps. Boxing Day is virtually a repeat performance, but it may also be a relaxed 'unorganized' day with everyone lying around recovering from a hectic time.

After Boxing Day, things get back to normal, but in fact they don't - not yet. The Christmas tree is still standing there, the kids run around it singing as if Christmas was tomorrow.

In many Danish homes, New Year's Eve is a quiet, traditional evening for young and old together. An appetizing meal, a few games with the children - a few crackers and perhaps some fireworks. Around midnight, the family welcomes the New Year with a toast.

But, in perhaps the majority of homes, especially the younger, the occasion calls for a party with all the masked fun and games of carnival, streamers and champagne, a shower of fireworks and practical jokes throughout the neighbourhood - with bicycles perched up on garage roofs and garden gates hung up the neighbour's flagpole. Then back to the party and dance the rest of the night away.

So, Christmas is over.

Merry Christmas

Home is where hearts are ... especially during Christmas. Our hope is that every home is filled with the warmth of the true Christmas spirit. Many thanks to everyone.

HOMESTEAD'S SCHNITZEL HOUSE
Otto & Imgard, Wendy & Steven

Well, not quite. It lasts 13 days. The 12th is ... the Twelfth Night. The Danes light three candles - as a token substitute for the Christmas tree, which has been moved into the garden, where it will be decorated with strings of fat and nuts for the birds.

Bill 59 A Major Revision Of Game And Fish Act

Many changes in the use of wildlife resources are provided for in Bill 59, an Act to amend the Ontario Game and Fish Act, which received Royal Assent November 14, 1980. Minister of Natural Resources
James Auld announced.

"Bill 59, which is now in force, allows, clearer and more precise control involving hunters, trappers and other users of wildlife resources numbering three to four million people," he said.

"It also resolves many concerns of naturalists, humane associations and animal welfare groups. The concerns of all will be readily served by the additions to the statute."

A few of the major changes provided for in the act are:

- (a) Separate classification for elk in order to give them specific protection.
- (b) Additional controls necessary for the preservation and use of deer and moose,
and mandatory reporting
of hunter success.
- (c) Protection of reptiles and amphibians to assure that scientific and commercial use does not lead to them becoming endangered species in Ontario.

- (d) Raising maximum fines to $5,000 from $1,000 for infractions of the law.
- (e) Provisions to restrict use and possession of traps.
- (f) Provisions concerning the training of hunting dogs and field trials held outside of the normal hunting season.

"Hunters, trappers and other wildlife users should carefully read summaries of the 1981 regulations and note all changes and additions applicable to their use of wildlife resources," Mr. Auld said.

"If there is any part of the legislation they do not understand they can get help from the nearest district office of the Ministry.

"Amendment of the Act reflects the increasing interest by Ontario residents in protecting our wildlife resources," the Minister added.

The legislation will assist in the management, perpetuation and rehabilitation of these resources.

Ice should be at least 8 cm

Once In Royal David's City

Once in royal David's city
Stood a lowly cattle shed,
Where a mother laid her baby
In a manger for his bed
Mary was that mother mild,
Jesus Christ her little child.

He came down to earth from heaven
Who is God and Lord of all,
And His shelter was a stable,
And His cradle was a stall,
With the poor, and mean, and lowly Lived on earth our Saviour holy.

And through all His wondrous childhood
He would honor and obey
Love and watch the lowly maiden
In whose gentle arms He lay.
Christian children all must be Mild, obedient, good as he.

And our eyes at last shall see Him.
Through His own redeeming
love;
For that child so dear and gentle
Is our Lord in heav'n above;
And He leads His children on
To the place where He is gone.

A present for Santa

The Grade 3 and 4 classes at the Christmas concert put on a very good performance of a child's play "A Christmas for Santa."
